HOW TO LEAD WHEN YOU ARE NOT IN CHARGE

Being a leader is not about a job title - it is about your ability to influence outcomes and inspire others.

Participants who experience the How to Lead When You are Not in Charge webinar will learn four actionable ideas on how to:

- 1) Take ownership of your role by narrowing your say-do gap
- 2) Build loyalty and camaraderie
- 3) Be accountable for success and failure.
- 4) Contribute to a top-performing team

The How to Lead When You Are Not in Charge webinar is presented by Angie Morgan and Courtney Lynch, who share their leadership experiences as Marine Corps officers in their best selling business book, Leading from the Front. For more information, visit www.leadstar.us

"It turned out to be one of the best webinars I've ever attended. The materials give a glimpse of how practical the content was, but the presentation, itself, was excellent. ... I was impressed that their responses were equally polished when they spoke extemporaneously in response to participants' questions. They also made good use of the webinar format by doing more than just displaying a power point. They were able to pose questions in multiple choice format, collect participant responses, and show the answers in real time to illustrate the points they were making in the rest of the presentation." Sara Todd, Associate General Counsel, Fannie Mae
